

ERwin Divested from CA Technologies

March 02, 2016

ERwin has been divested from CA Technologies and will be known as ERwin, Inc. moving forward.

As the leader in Data Modeling, ERwin, Inc. is looking to build value by investing in its award-winning solution, its partners and our expert people to the benefit of the overall market.

As organizations continue to strive for a “data driven” approach to doing business, the data management market is ripe for growth. We expect to invest in our technology and add new products that will extend ERwin's lead in the overall database modeling market into emerging high value data management disciplines.

With this exciting news, we plan to increase our focus on our channel partners to grow our business and will execute on new strategic alliances to expand product penetration in the market place.

For our customers, we will continue to deliver a superior level of customer service while we add features to the technology that will make them even more productive in their current roles.

We are excited about the future of ERwin Modeling and look forward to growing this business together.
